1 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

2 I. INTRODUCTION

3 Applicant iFinex Inc. (“iFinex” or “Applicant”) seeks the assistance of this Court in 4 obtaining discovery for use in foreign proceedings both currently ongoing and contemplated in 5 Poland, Portugal, and the United Kingdom. In those proceedings, Applicant seeks to recover
6 approximately $880,000,000 of funds which it had entrusted to an entity named Global Trade
7 Solutions AG (“Global Trade”), doing business as “Crypto Capital.”

8 Since 2014, but primarily in 2017-2018, Crypto Capital provided services as a payment
9 processor to Applicant, transferring funds to and from Applicant and its customers. Since no
10 later than December 2018, however, Crypto Capital has failed and refused to remit funds, 11 claiming that its bank accounts located in Poland, Portugal, the United Kingdom, and the United 12 States had been seized or frozen by various governmental authorities in each jurisdiction.

13 For this reason, Applicant (1) filed a claim with the National Prosecutor’s Office in 14 Poland seeking to recover funds in proceedings currently ongoing before that body; (2) filed an 15 application for protective order with the Court of Cascais in the Judicial Court of Western Lisbon
16 (“Court of Cascais”) to prevent the dissipation of certain funds held in Portugal; (3) intends to 17 initiate a legal suit for recovery of those funds before the same court; (4) filed a “*Norwich
18 Pharmacal*” disclosure request with the Business and Property Courts of England and Wales
19 concerning certain bank accounts in the United Kingdom; and, (5) intends to initiate a legal suit 20 for recovery of funds in those accounts before the High Court of Justice in London, United 21 Kingdom.

22 Through the instant Application, iFinex seeks the aid of this Court in taking discovery
23 from Rondell “Rhon” Clyde Monroe. Mr. Monroe is the former Vice President of TCA
24 Investment Bancorp and Trust Company (“TCA Bancorp”). On Applicant’s information and 25 belief, Crypto Capital has used one or more accounts held at TCA Bancorp to facilitate the 26 transfer of funds belonging to Applicant. Applicant believes Mr. Monroe to have information 27 and documents vital to their claims in the proceedings identified above, and which will 28 substantiate Applicant’s claims to hundreds of millions of dollars.

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. iFinex's Businesses

iFinex operates a leading global virtual currency platform operating under the brand and trade name of Bitfinex, specifically, on and through www.bitfinex.com. (Declaration of Giancarlo Devasini (“Devasini Decl.”) ¶ 2.) Bitfinex provides a technology platform for customers—both business and individuals—to engage in the trade of digital tokens (e.g., bitcoin and Ethereum) using U.S. dollars, Euros, British pounds, and/or Japanese yen. (Id. ¶ 2.)

Before using Bitfinex’s platform, customers must enter into a contract with Bitfinex agreeing to their terms of service, which are publicly available on Applicant’s website. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 3.) Customers wishing to deposit fiat currency—such as U.S. dollars, Euros, British pounds or Japanese yen—on the platform must go through an extensive due diligence process. (Id. ¶ 3.) Applicant also has in place standards to monitor transactions, assess risks, and file Suspicious Activity Reports (commonly referred to as a SAR) and other reports required by applicable law. (Id. ¶ 3.)

Customers who want to purchase virtual currency through Bitfinex using fiat currency must first deposit their funds into their Bitfinex account. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 4.) Once fiat is deposited, they may trade those funds for digital tokens with other users. They may then withdraw those digital tokens. They may, alternately, withdraw unused fiat currency from Bitfinex or fiat currency that is the proceeds from future trading. (Id. ¶ 4.)

For these platforms to work, customers depend on Applicant's ability to receive and send fiat currency. This concept is similar, but not the same, to a customer of a U.S. financial institution having access to her money from a branch, on demand. (Id. ¶ 5.)

Until early 2017, customers who sought to deposit fiat currency into their Bitfinex account could do so by interbank wire transfer, transferring funds from their own bank accounts into certain bank accounts held by iFinex in Taiwan. In early 2017, however, certain U.S. banks successfully pressured Applicant’s Taiwanese banks into discontinuing this arrangement. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 6.)

1 Without a readily available banking solution, iFinex turned to a third-party payment
2 processor doing business as “Crypto Capital.”¹ (Devasini Decl. ¶ 7.)

3 B. Applicant’s Agreement with Crypto Capital

4 Crypto Capital markets itself as enabling its customers to deposit and withdraw fiat funds
5 instantly to certain virtual currency exchanges including, at the time, Bitfinex. (Devasini Decl.
6 ¶ 8.) In late 2014, Crypto Capital agreed to act as a payment processor² for the Bitfinex
7 exchange, although the large majority of processing activity did not commence until 2017. That 8 is, when Bitfinex customers sought to deposit fiat currency into their Bitfinex accounts, Bitfinex
9 would provide customers with banking details to which the deposits were to be remitted by bank
10 wire, as well as certain identifiers to include in the wire details. Crypto Capital represented that 11 the accounts receiving customer deposits were owned and operated by Crypto Capital or its 12 related entities. (Id. ¶ 8.)

13 Once Crypto Capital received funds transmitted, it would use the identifier to allocate 14 deposits to a Bitfinex account and communicate receipt of the deposit to Bitfinex. (Devasini 15 Decl. ¶ 9.) Generally, Bitfinex would log onto the Crypto Capital platform to confirm that the 16 wire was received and approve the deposit receipt. At that point, the funds were made available
17 to the Bitfinex customer on the Bitfinex platform. Pursuant to the parties’ agreement, Crypto
18 Capital would hold these funds on behalf of Bitfinex, but would also transfer funds to Bitfinex
19 on demand. (Id.)

20 Customer withdrawals processed by Crypto Capital were handled similarly. (Devasini 21 Decl. ¶ 10.) A Bitfinex customer would submit a withdrawal request to Bitfinex. Bitfinex would 22 log onto the Crypto Capital platform and fill in the beneficiary details provided by the customer.

25 ¹ In early 2017, according to its website, Crypto Capital was owned and operated by a
Panamanian entity named Crypto Capital Corp that has since been dissolved (in June 2018). Sometime 26 in 2018, Crypto Capital began holding itself out, including on its website www.cryptocapital.co, as being 27 owned by a Swiss entity named Global Trade Solutions AG. For purposes of clarity, Applicant will refer to the company as “Crypto Capital.”

28 ² Broadly speaking, a “payment processor” is a third party that facilitates financial transactions between parties.

1 Bitfinex would then approve the withdrawal request and Crypto Capital would settle the 2 withdrawal by remitting the funds to the Bitfinex customer from a bank account owned by 3 Crypto Capital. (Id.)

4 As part of the parties' agreement, besides a nominal fee for each deposit or withdrawal,
5 Crypto Capital charged no fee for these services to iFinex because it was able to earn substantial
6 interest on the funds it held on Applicant's behalf in its accounts. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 11.)

7 At no time did Crypto Capital disclose any relationship between it and Spiral Global 8 Development Limited or its sole director and shareholder, Reginald Dennis Fowler ("Fowler").
9 (Devasini Decl. ¶ 12.) Indeed, until December 2018, Crypto Capital never disclosed that several 10 of the bank accounts to which Applicant's customers transferred fiat funds were actually held
11 and controlled by Spiral and Fowler, and not by Crypto Capital or any of its related entities. (Id.)

12 C. Applicant's Begin to Discover Crypto Capital's Malfeasance

13 From early 2017 through late 2018, Bitfinex customers transferred more than $1.5 billion
14 to various bank accounts purportedly held or controlled by Crypto Capital. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 15 13.) By July 2018, the amount Crypto Capital held and owed to Applicant exceeded $1 billion.
16 The reason for this large balance was largely two-fold: (1) an increasing interest in virtual
17 currency trading and investment, leading to increasing amounts being transferred by Applicant's 18 customers; and (2) institutional constraints on the amount of funds that could be transferred 19 between Crypto Capital accounts and Applicant's bank accounts. (Id.)

20 Applicant's relationship with Crypto Capital generally operated well. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 21 14.) In or about March or April 2018, however, Applicant learned from news reports that Crypto
22 Capital funds had been seized by authorities in Poland as part of an investigation into potential 23 money-laundering. At the time, Crypto Capital acknowledged that its Polish bank accounts had 24 been frozen, but claimed that none of Applicant's funds were affected by these actions. (Id.)

25 In or about late August 2018, however, Crypto Capital began representing that 26 approximately $500 million of Applicant's funds in both Poland and Portugal were being "held 27 up" by regulators in both countries. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 15.) From then through November 2018, 28

1 one of Crypto Capital’s principals, Oz “Joseph,”³ repeatedly reassured Applicant that its funds
2 held in Poland and Portugal were on the verge of being released and that Crypto Capital was
3 working diligently with local authorities to secure their release. (Id.)

In response to increasing pressure from Applicant and their attorneys for specific information concerning the banking accounts that had been purportedly frozen, Crypto Capital began providing additional information in the latter part of 2018. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 16.) As is relevant here, on November 29, 2018, Crypto Capital claimed that it held more than $306 million of Applicant’s funds in a “TCA Bank,” which Crypto Capital later explained was TCA Investment Bancorp & Trust Company. (Id.)

On December 13, 2018, Crypto Capital provided Applicant with a “Reference Letter” from TCA Bancorp dated December 6, 2018. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 17; Ex. B.) In it, TCA Bancorp states that the letter is provided at its customer’s request. It represents that an account ending in -1401 has an “Available Balance” of $304,000,000. The letter, however, identifies TCA Bancorp’s customer as “G.T.S. Resources Limited” and not Crypto Capital or any other entity related to Crypto Capital of which Applicant was aware. Indeed, until Applicant received the Reference Letter, it was unaware of G.T.S. Resources Limited or its relationship to Crypto Capital. (Id.)

Mr. Monroe is the author and signer of the Reference Letter. (Devasini Decl. Ex. B.)

19 Applicant subsequently learned that G.T.S. Resources Limited was a UK entity that had 20 been formed on May 14, 2018. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 18.) According to the entity's Articles of 21 Incorporation, Reginald Dennis Fowler is its sole director and shareholder. On December 17, 22 2018, Fowler formally changed the name of the entity to Spiral Global Development Limited.
23 (Id.)

Before this disclosure by Crypto Capital, Applicant was unaware that any of their funds were being held by either Spiral or TCA Bancorp. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 19.) Nor was Applicant

³ In 2019, Applicant subsequently learned that Mr. Joseph's last name was actually "Yosef." During Applicant's relationship with Crypto Capital, however, Yosef represented—both orally and in writing—that his name to was "Joseph." (Devasini Decl. ¶ 11.)

1 aware of any involvement in Crypto Capital by Fowler. Before transferring or causing the 2 transfer of any of Applicant's funds to an unrelated third-party, such as Spiral, Crypto Capital
3 had an affirmative obligation to first seek iFinex's approval. Similarly, after transferring or 4 causing the transfer of Applicant's funds to Spiral, Crypto Capital had an affirmative obligation
5 to disclose those transfers. (Id.)

6 D. Current, Ongoing Foreign Proceedings

7 According to Crypto Capital: approximately $355,000,000 of Applicant's funds are being 8 held in various currencies that were on deposit in accounts at Bank Spoldzielczy in Skieriewice, 9 Poland. According to Crypto Capital, approximately $218,000,000 of Plaintiffs' funds are being 10 held in various currencies in accounts at three separate Portuguese banks: Banco Português de
11 Investimento, Bankinter, S.A., and Caixa Geral de Depositos S.A. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 20.)

12 Since these and other subsequent disclosures, as well their own further investigation, 13 Applicant has been able to confirm that the National Prosecutor's Office in Poland has seized
14 certain funds held by Crypto Capital in Bank Spoldzielczy. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 21.) Applicant
15 has filed a claim with the Prosecutor's Office as an "Injured Party" seeking to recover funds that 16 Crypto Capital held in Poland on their behalf. Applicant also filed a civil claim against a Polish
17 entity affiliated with Crypto Capital that was the authorized holder of the accounts at issue 18 located in Poland. Additionally, Applicant filed two criminal notifications against the 19 representatives of the Polish entity affiliated with Crypto Capital concerning fraud and 20 appropriation. (Devasini Decl.)

21 With respect to the funds held in the Portuguese banks identified above, Applicant has 22 not been able to confirm that such funds have been "frozen" by any appropriate authorities.
23 (Devasini Decl. ¶ 22.)

24 Applicant has also learned that Crypto Capital maintained accounts with HSBC Bank 25 PLC ("HSBC UK") in the United Kingdom. Applicant anticipates bringing a subsequent suit in 26 the United Kingdom in order to recover the funds. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 23.)

27 To Applicant's understanding, however, Crypto Capital did not simply receive customer 28 deposits into its various banking accounts and maintain those deposits with the initial bank

1 receiving those funds. Rather, Crypto Capital subsequently transferred funds between and 2 among various banks in Europe and the United States. In the U.S. alone, Applicant has 3 information that Crypto Capital used accounts held not only at HSBC and Citibank, but also
4 Bank of America, Bank of Colorado, Enterprise Bank & Trust, Stearns Bank, Sun Trust, TD
5 Bank, US Bank, and Wells Fargo. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 24.)

6 Thus, in order to demonstrate Applicant’s ownership of and entitlement to the various 7 funds held in Poland, Portugal, and the United Kingdom, Applicant must be able to trace the 8 funds deposited by its customers through the fund transfers between and among the various 9 banking accounts operated or used by Crypto Capital. Applicant also seeks information 10 regarding the ownership and use of the accounts at issue, as well as communications between 11 the banks and account holders and/or their representatives. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 25.)

III. THE CONTEMPLATED DISCOVERY

The contemplated discovery is narrowly tailored to the facts and circumstances surrounding Mr. Monroe’s and TCA Bancorp’s involvement in the events described in Section II, above. Applicant seeks the production of documents and the testimony of Mr. Monroe, who was a Vice President of TCA Bancorp, a third-party entity believed to be in possession, custody and control of more than $306,000,000 of Applicant’s funds. Generally, Applicant seeks documentation and information concerning the accounts holding Applicant’s funds, any transfers of Applicant’s funds to or from those accounts, as well as communications between and among Crypto Capital or its various affiliated entities and individuals:

- Crypto Capital Corp, a now-dissolved Panamanian entity that previously owned and operated the www.cryptocapital.co website.
 - Global Trade Solutions AG, a Swiss entity that now owns and operates the www.cryptocaptital.co website.
 - Ivan Manuel Molina Lee, one of Crypto Capital's principals. Mr. Molina is also a registered director of Global Trade Solutions AG.
 - Ozzie Yosef a/k/a Ozzie Joseph, one of Crypto Capital's principals.

1 • Ravid Yosef, Mr. Yosef's sister. According to an April 2019 indictment brought 2 by the U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York, Ms. Yosef opened and used
3 numerous accounts at FDIC insured banks in order to provide banking services to 4 cryptocurrency exchanges like Bitfinex. In doing so, the indictment alleges that Ms. Yosef
5 falsely represented that the accounts would be used for real estate investment transactions.

6 • Reginald Dennis Fowler, an individual who provided Crypto Capital access to 7 various banking accounts in Europe and the United States through various entities which he 8 owned or controlled. Prior to December 2018, Crypto Capital had never revealed Mr. Fowler's 9 involvement in its operations and only admitted as much in or about late December 2018 and 10 thereafter.

11 • Trent Dennis Fowler, a son of Reginald Dennis Fowler. According to banking 12 records provided by Crypto Capital to iFinex, Trent Fowler is the registered account holder for 13 at least one of the accounts used by Crypto Capital to receive deposits from Bitfinex customers.

14 • Global Trading Solutions, LLC, an entity Crypto Capital used to receive and 15 disburse iFinex customer deposits. iFinex has subsequently learned that Global Trade Solutions, 16 LLC is actually wholly owned by Mr. Fowler.

17 • G.T.S. Resources Limited, a United Kingdom entity that, according to Crypto
18 Capital, is currently holding more than $304,000,000 of iFinex's funds with TCA Investment 19 Bancorp & Trust (below). G.T.S. Resources Limited is also wholly owned by Mr. Fowler. In 20 December 2018—after iFinex learned of Mr. Fowler's involvement with Crypto Capital—Mr.
21 Fowler changed the corporate name of the entity to Spiral Global Development Limited.

22 • TCA Investment Bancorp & Trust Company, an entity claiming to hold more than 23 $304,000,000 in funds on behalf of G.T.S. Resources Limited. Despite its name, however, TCA
24 Investment Bancorp & Trust is not a bank and appears to have no physical presence. TCA
25 Bancorp is operated by at least four principals: Katsuyoshi Iwanaga, Diane Fletcher, David 26 Anthony Stafford, and Rondell Monroe.

27 • NLE Consulting Group, a Florida entity created in February 2018 and for which 28 Mr. Fowler is registered as a Vice President. In March 2018, the entity applied for a fictitious

1 name of “Global Trading Solutions,” a name substantially similar to Global Trade Solutions
2 AG, the entity that owns and controls the cryptocaptial.co website. According to news articles,
3 Crypto Capital used at least one account in the name of NLE to hold customer funds and remitted
4 funds overseas to at least one other Fowler and/or Crypto Capital-controlled account.

5 A copy of Applicant’s proposed discovery is attached to the Devasini Declaration as 6 Exhibit “A”.

7 IV. iFINEX’S LOCATION

8 iFinex is incorporated in the British Virgin Islands. (Devasini Decl. ¶ 2.)

9 V. THE APPLICATION SATISFIES SECTION 1782’S REQUIREMENTS

10 28 U.S.C. §1782(a) provides:

11 The district court of the district in which a person resides or is found may order him
12 to give his testimony or statement or to produce a document or other thing for use
13 in a proceeding in a foreign or international tribunal. The order may be made 14 pursuant to ... the application of any interested person...

15 The fundamental purpose of §1782 is to provide a procedure whereby a qualified 16 applicant may obtain “federal-court assistance in gathering evidence for use in foreign 17 tribunals.” Intel Corp. v. Advanced Micro Devices, Inc., 542 U.S. 241, 247 (2004). “Any 18 interested person” includes litigants before foreign or international tribunals, and includes 19 corporate entities as well as natural persons. Id. at 256; see Akebia Therapeutics, Inc. v.
FibroGen, Inc., 793 F.3d 1108, 1109 (9th Cir. 2015).

20 The policy behind §1782 is to “assist foreign tribunals in obtaining relevant information
21 that the tribunals may find useful, but, for reasons having no bearing on international comity, 22 they cannot obtain under their own laws.” Id., at 262. The “prima facie showing mandated by 23 the statute is that the application be made (1) ‘by a foreign or international tribunal’ or ‘any 24 interested person,’ (2) that it be ‘for use in a proceeding in a foreign or international tribunal,’ 25 and (3) that the person or entity from whom the discovery is sought be a resident of or be found 26 in the district in which the application is filed.” In re Bayer AG, 146 F.3d 188, 193 (3d Cir.
27 1998); Republic of Kazakhstan v. Biedermann Int’l, 168 F.3d 880, 881 (5th Cir. 1999).

1 A. Applicant is an “Interested Person”

2 As noted above and in the Devasini Declaration, Applicant is a party to three current 3 foreign proceedings occurring in Poland, Portugal, and the United Kingdom. As a party in 4 foreign litigation, iFinex satisfies the “interested person” requirement of Section 1782. See Intel,
5 542 U.S. at 256 (“No doubt litigants are included among, and may be the most common example
6 of, the ‘interested person[s]’ who may invoke Section 1782.”); see also John Deere Ltd. v.
7 Sperry Corp., 754 F.2d 132 (3d Cir. 1985) (a party to foreign litigation is an interested person
8 under Section 1782).

9 B. The Requested Discovery is for Use in Conjunction with Proceedings Before 10 Foreign Tribunals

11 As discussed above, Applicant seeks discovery from the respondent banks: (1) to 12 establish their right to certain funds in proceedings before the National Prosecutor’s Office in 13 Poland; (2) to establish their right to enjoin the dissipation of certain funds in Portugal before 14 the Court of Cascais, as well as their right to recover those funds in a subsequent suit before the 15 same court; and (3) their right to recover certain funds held by HSBC in the United Kingdom
16 before the High Court of Justice there.

17 While Section 1782 requires that the evidence sought be “for use in a proceeding in a
18 foreign or international tribunal,” the Supreme Court has rejected the view that “Section 1782
19 comes into play only when adjudicative proceedings are ‘pending’ or ‘imminent.’” Intel, 542
20 U.S. at 259. Rather, it held that a foreign proceeding only had to be “within reasonable 21 contemplation.” Id.; see also Mees v. Buitier, 793 F.3d 291, 299 (2nd Cir. 2015) (rejecting 22 argument that pre-litigation discovery sought via § 1782 required a showing that applicant could 23 not commence foreign proceeding absent the discovery sought).

24 In deciding whether this requirement of § 1782 is met, the district court should ask 25 whether “there [is] sufficient indication that a proceeding in court would eventuate in which the 26 evidence gathered can be weighed impartially.” In re Letter of Request from Crown Prosecution
27 Serv. Of United Kingdom, 870 F.2d 686, 691 (D.C. Cir. 1989). Where the applicant sets forth 28 the documents it desires, the information it expects to find, and the reasons it would use the

1 documents, the court can reasonably conclude that a foreign proceeding is within reasonable
2 contemplation. In re Request for Assistance from Ministry of Legal Affairs of Trinidad &
3 Tobago, 848 F.2d 1151, 1156 (11th Cir. 1988), abrogated on other grounds by Intel, 542 U.S.
4 241.

5 Here, certain foreign proceedings have commenced, as identified above. The fact that 6 other contemplated foreign proceedings have not yet commenced, such as additional 7 proceedings in Poland identified above, is of no moment. Indeed, in Intel, the Supreme Court
8 held that “Section 1782(a) does not limit the provision of judicial assistance to pending [or 9 imminent] adjudicative proceedings. 542 U.S. at 258. The Intel Court held that Section 1782(a) 10 should be read only to require that it be “within reasonable contemplation” that the evidence 11 sought would be used in a dispositive proceeding.” Id. (citing In re Crown Prosecution Serv., 12 870 F.2d 686, 691 (emphasis added)); see also In re Letters Rogatory Issued by the National 13 Court of First Instance in Commercial Matters N.23 of the Federal Capital of the Argentinean
14 Republic, 144 F.R.D. 272, 277 n. 4 (3d Cir. 1992)(rejecting argument that a “pending” 15 proceeding is required under Section 1782); In the Matter of the Application of Oxus Gold PLC
16 For Assistance Before a Foreign Tribunal, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 24061, at *18 (D.N.J. April 17 2, 2007)(requirements of Section 1782 satisfied where applicant alleged that claim would be 18 litigated in “near future”).

19 Thus, this factor favors granting the requested discovery.

20 C. Monroe Resides in and Can Be Found in the Central District of California

21 Mr. Monroe maintains a residence and currently resides in Orange County, California.
22 (See Devasini Decl. ¶ 27.) Therefore Mr. Monroe is within this Court’s jurisdiction and subject
23 to its authority over the requested discovery sought in this Application.

24 D. Discretionary Considerations Merit Granting This Application

25 In addition, certain discretionary factors that “bear consideration in a ruling on a §1782 26 request” also favor granting the instant Application. See, Intel, 542 U.S. at 264-65. These 27 include:

- (1) Whether the person from whom discovery is sought is a non-participant to the foreign proceeding thereby making the need for the aid more apparent;
 - (2) The nature of the foreign tribunal, the character of the proceedings underway abroad, and the receptivity of the foreign government or court abroad to federal court judicial assistance;
 - (3) Whether the §1782 application for discovery is an attempt to circumvent the foreign proceeding or undermine foreign laws; and,
 - (4) Whether granting discovery that is narrowly tailored is consistent with the aims of the statute to promote efficiency and reciprocity.

10 | Here, each of these discretionary factors weighs in favor of granting the Application.

First, Applicant's need for the discovery from Mr. Monroe by means of §1782(a) is heightened by the fact that neither he nor TCA Bancorp will be a defendant or party in the Polish, Portuguese, or UK litigation. Applicant is unaware of any contacts either Mr. Monroe or TCA Bancorp may have with either Poland, Portugal, or the United Kingdom which may subject them to their jurisdiction.⁴

16 As the Supreme Court noted: “[a] foreign tribunal has jurisdiction over those appearing 17 before it, and can itself order them to produce evidence.” Intel, 542 U.S. at 264-65. As such, 18 relief under §1782(a) may not be warranted where the relevant tribunal does not need the 19 assistance. Id. In contrast, here, Monroe possesses evidence relevant in the foreign proceedings, 20 but it appears that he will not be a party to the case. Indeed, it appears that he will not be brought 21 before any foreign tribunal for the purpose of obtaining the evidence currently in his possession,
22 nor is the discovery sought from him within the jurisdictional reach of the courts of Poland,
23 Portugal, or the United Kingdom. Nonetheless, documents in his possession and his testimony 24 are directly relevant to Applicant’s claims there. This weighs in favor of granting the

1 Application.

2 Second, there is no reason to believe that the National Prosecutor's Office of Poland, the 3 Court of Cascais, or the courts of the United Kingdom would be unreceptive to this Court's 4 grant of the discovery sought. All three countries are also parties to the New York Convention.
5 Therefore, there is no reason to believe that those courts would object to this Court's assistance
6 with discovery that will, by providing information concerning the transfers of Applicant's funds,
7 facilitate the foreign proceedings and the potential recovery of those funds.

8 Further, the courts have held that the liberal policy of granting assistance favors allowing 9 a petitioner the discovery sought so that the foreign court itself may determine the admissibility
10 or relevance of the evidence obtained. See In re Euromepa S.A., 51 F.3d 1095, 1099-1100 (2d
11 Cir. 1995) (explaining that "a district court's inquiry into the discoverability of requested
12 materials should consider only authoritative proof that a foreign tribunal would reject evidence 13 obtained with the aid of section 1782," and that "[a]bsent this type of clear directive, however, 14 a district court's ruling should be informed by section 1782's overarching interest in 'providing 15 equitable and efficacious procedures for the benefit of tribunals and litigants involved in 16 litigation with international aspects.'"); In re Application of Grupo Qummam, No. M 8-85 (DC), 17 2005 WL 937486, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 22, 2005) ("The Mexican court, rather than this Court,
18 should decide whether the additional evidence is admissible, and it will be in a better position 19 to do so if Qumma is permitted to conduct the requested discovery first.").

20 Third, the discovery is centrally relevant to the proceedings in Poland, Portugal, and the 21 United Kingdom, and would not conflict with or circumvent any foreign proof-gathering
22 restrictions. Courts have interpreted this discretionary factor as an inquiry into the petitioner's 23 good faith: "[A] district court could consider whether the §1782(a) request conceals an attempt 24 to circumvent foreign-proof gathering restriction or other policies of a foreign country or the 25 United States." Intel, 542 U.S. at 264-65; see, also, In re Application of Gemeinschaftspraxis
26 Dr. Med. Schottdorf, Case No. M1 9-88, 2006 WL 3844464, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 29, 2006).
27 Applicant's request here is made in good faith and not for purposes of harassment. See, Brandi-
28 Dohorn v. IKB Deutsch Industriebank AG, 673 F.3d 76, 81 (2d Cir. 2012). Thus, 28 U.S.C.

1 §1782 is a proper and necessary method by which to obtain the critical evidence sought by 2 Applicant.

3 Fourth and finally, any discovery under the subpoenas will not be onerous for Mr.
4 Monroe. Courts may consider whether the discovery requests under §1782 are “unduly intrusive
5 or burdensome” and should be “rejected or trimmed.” Intel, 542 U.S. at 265. In this instance,
6 Applicant seeks information and documents from Monroe narrowly tailored to information
7 concerning the accounts linked to Crypto Capital, Spiral, and their principals, agents and related 8 entities. It is unlikely that such information or documentation would be voluminous or difficult
9 to search for and produce. Accordingly, this factor also weighs in favor of granting the instant
10 Application.

11 VI. CONCLUSION

12 Based on the foregoing, Applicant respectfully requests that this Court grant the instant
13 Application in its entirety.
